

Three-Part Series on Writing English Research Article for Young Researchers

This three-part series will introduce some key points for writing and submitting English research articles for students and young researchers who want to increase the number of publications written in English. The series will also provide practical tips on how to use the Scopus (a literature search tool) and Mendeley (a literature management tool) for a better research and writing management.

DATES

The 2nd Seminar

Selection of Appropriate Journals and Publication Ethics

July 6th, WED, 6:00-7:00 PM (JPN)

July 7th, THU, 10:00-11:00 AM (ENG)

This seminar provides selection of appropriate journals for submitting and misconducts of publication ethics. In the journal selection part, you will learn about checkpoints for selecting journals, how to check impact of journals by using Scopus, and how to identify predatory journals.

■ The 1st Seminar

How to Get Your Paper Published

Please see Iroha or Momiji for archives

■ Upcoming Seminars

The 3rd Seminar

Effective Literature Search and Citation Management

August 3rd, WED, 6:00 – 7:00 PM (Japanese)

August 4th, THU, 10:00 – 11:00 AM (English)

Presenter

Hiromasa Maeda

Customer Consultant

Research Intelligence Division, Elsevier Japan

Hiromasa Maeda graduated from Kyushu University with a master's degree in engineering. After graduating from Kyushu University, he joined a chemical manufacturer and gained experience in developing overseas markets for medical reagents. At Elsevier Japan, he is specialized in supporting users and researchers at universities.

Application

<https://bit.ly/3xnXutg>

- Any member of Hiroshima University can participate.
- Eligible for the New Faculty Training Program.
- Participation in only one seminar is also possible.

